

Black Haribo Brings Out Cancer

This week, scientists discovered that black Dragibus, from the famous brand Haribo, can give you cancer.

It's the famous Spanish scientist, Didiar Jaoul, who got multiple doctorates, who put the cat out of the bag. Indeed, after some months of research, he found out that the dark color of the Dragibus is based on a colorant made of charcoal, a really dangerous mineral for the human body.

The scientist declared : « I always analyzed some industrial food, but it's the first time i see a brand who don't care of the consequences of there acts at this point. ». This is the first time we see such a problem.

There are already at least 102 people that have contracted cancer because of the Haribo Company and some of them died. This composition changement has been made to reduce the production costs of the Dragibus. Actually, the previous black colorant was really expensive, so they tried to find a cheaper way to produce it. By the way, to hide the trick, they never mentioned this ingredient in the list of components of the Dragibus.

As you think, now that this confidence trick is discovered, the Haribo company, which hasn't already expressed its opinion about this affair, will have a lot of problems with the world's justice system. This incident will not only have consequences on the Haribo firm but also on the other brands which pass their profits before their clients.

If we must find a conclusion about this unfortunate event, it's obviously that you can't trust something just because of his influence and fame.